

DATASET OVERVIEW

The dataset used for this analysis represents sales transactions from a global superstore. It contains the following key attributes:

Order Date:

- Tracks sales over time to identify trends and seasonal patterns.

Region and State:

- Provides geographical information to analyze regional and state-wise performance.

Category and Sub-Category:

- Categorizes products into main groups (e.g., Technology, Furniture, Office Supplies) and their sub-groups (e.g., Phones, Chairs, Binders).

Sales, Profit, and Discounts:

- Tracks financial metrics like revenue, profitability, and applied discounts for each transaction.

Quantity:

- Indicates the number of units sold, helping to measure demand for each product.

Shipping Cost:

- Reflects logistics expenses, offering insights into cost optimization opportunities.

Sales Trends (Sum of Sales by Order Date)

- Sales peaked periodically between 2012-2015, with a general upward trend. Seasonal spikes suggest sales promotions or holiday periods influencing performance.

Sum of Sales by Region

Sales Distribution by Region

- The Western US and Central America are top-performing regions, contributing significantly to total sales.
- Less contribution from regions like Northern Europe and Oceania, indicating potential for expansion.

Sum of Sales by Category

Category Performance

- Office Supplies (37.53%) is the highest revenue-generating category, followed by Furniture (32.51%) and Technology (29.96%).
- Investment in the Office Supplies category appears profitable due to consistent demand.

REPORT ANALYSIS

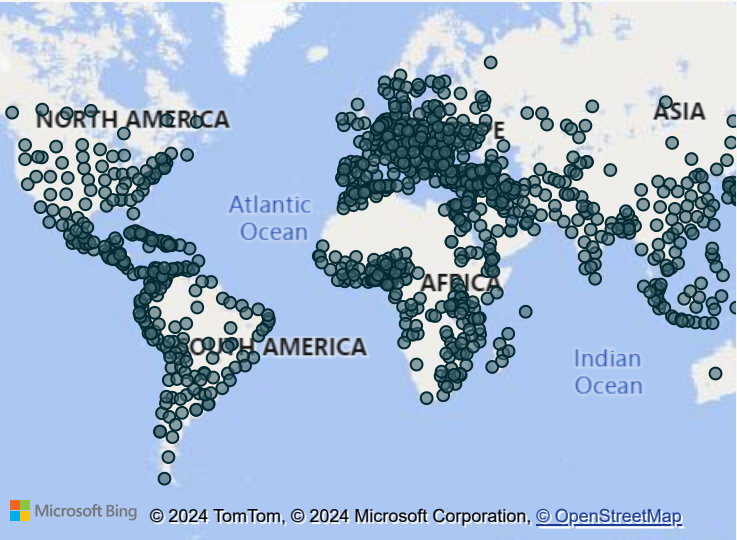

Sum of Sales by Sub-Category

Sub-Category Insights

- Top Performers: Phones, Copiers, and Chairs dominate sales within their sub-categories.
- Low Performers: Labels, Fasteners, and Envelopes contribute the least, suggesting they may need reassessment for profitability.

State

Geographical Trends

- The map visualization highlights strong customer presence in North America. Expanding reach into less represented regions like Africa and Southeast Asia could unlock potential markets.

Filters Applied

- Filters used include:
- Category: Technology, Furniture, Office Supplies
- Region: Regional segmentation of sales performance
 - Time Period: Sales trends over 2012–2015

Suggestions and Indications

Increase Promotions on High-Performing Categories:

Focus promotional campaigns on Phones, Copiers, and Chairs to maximize revenue from strong performers.

Revise Low-Performing Products:

Products like Labels, Fasteners, and Envelopes should be evaluated for cost-efficiency and market demand.

Expand into Untapped Regions:

Boost marketing efforts in regions like Northern Europe and Oceania to broaden geographical coverage and increase market share.

Analyze High Shipping Costs:

Strategies to optimize logistics could significantly reduce the $1.36M spent on shipping, directly improving profitability.

Leverage Seasonal Trends:

Utilize the identified sales peaks during specific times of the year to align inventory and promotional activities.
